About Cyprus

Cyprus's accession to Europe, resulted in numerous IP related legal reforms. Legislation for trademarks, designs, patents and copyright has been harmonized to meet the demands of the EU directives.

Cyprus is also a member of many of the IP related treaties including the most important treaties such as:

- World Trade Organization (WTO) - Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS Agreement) (1994)
- Madrid Agreement Concerning the International Registration of Marks
- Protocol Relating to the Madrid Agreement Concerning the International Registration of Marks
- WIPO Copyright Treaty
- Patent Cooperation Treaty
- Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property
- Berne Convention for the Protection of Literary and Artistic Works
- Convention on the Grant of European Patents (EPO)

This is a clear indication that Cyprus affords the appropriate value to intellectual property rights. Such rights are not only comprehensively safeguarded but also reviewed and updated in order to keep abreast of trends both locally and internationally in this area.
